I'm a bit of a veterinarian, a bit of a scientist, and a bit of a teacher, and for a living I do... castrations :) But seriously, I work at the Reproduction Department, where I handle animals' intimate matters, mainly in dogs and cats. In clinical practice, I'm interested in pregnancy, neonatology, and pediatrics. In the scientific realm, I mainly focus on assisted reproduction techniques, particularly in vitro culture of oocytes and embryos in cats.

If you're looking for a tutor who not only knows their stuff, enjoys a good conversation, and is a good listener, you've just found one! Together, we'll try to break the stereotypical teacher-student relationship and discover what matters most to you. Feel free to join me for academic or developmental tutoring – who knows, we might come up with some fascinating conclusions together...?
