On a daily basis, I deal with the broadly understood use of energy in practice, especially from renewable sources. I teach students because I like sharing knowledge and working with young people.

I believe that the key to success is to maintain the right synergy between scientific work and everything that allows me to recharge my batteries and develop further.

I know that if there is willingness and commitment, then achieving the goal is only a matter of time. And you? What are your life plans? Where do you see yourself in 10 or 20 years?
